VOTERS KEYPED UP TO HIGHEST PITCH

Battle in Seventh District Has Been Among the Republicans.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Winchester, Va., November 6.—It has been a long time since politics in the Seventh Congressional District have been keyed up to such a high pitch as at present. The campaign now closing is unusual and peculiar in many respects, one of the most notable features being that it is a war among Republicans instead of between Republicans and Democrats. All the Republicans conceded Congressman James Hay, of Madison, will be re-elected by a large majority, and there has been no attack worth speaking of on his record. Mr. Hay will be given a clean bill of health, so to speak, but the various factions of the Republican party are at bitter odds among themselves, and each faction is working to get the most votes, as by that method it will be determined who will get front seats at the Federal pie counter.

Attacks and counter-attacks are being made on the leaders of each faction, and all sorts of charges are being ferried. Practically every newspaper in the lower Shenandoah Valley appeared during last week with column after column of advertising matter, in which the past records of the leaders are attacked, and many politicians are wondering, in view of the fact that the Republican party is paying for the publicity. It is reported that the nat was passed around recently, and that those who have succeeded in getting Federal jobs and some who expect to get a slice of Federal pie made contributions.

Pressure is being brought to bear upon the board of supervisors of Frederick county to reconsider its action of a week ago, and make an appropriation of $200 for the maintenance of a boys' corn club at the Agricultural High School of the Seventh Congressional District, at Biddletown, this county. A delegation appeared before the supervisors and presented arguments setting forth the success of the club in other counties of the State, but the board declined to grant the request, even after being assured that the State Board of Education would make a similar donation. There has been a great deal of criticism during the last few days of the board's action, and it is hoped by the promoters of the club that an appropriation will yet be made.

Reports from the mountain districts of Virginia and West Virginia, north and west of Winchester, state that unusually early weather for this season of the year has been prevailing for several days, and that in some localities snow has fallen from a depth of eighteen inches to two feet. Many of the mountain people were caught unexpectedly, and there is said to be much suffering.

The heirs of James Tabler, of Bunker Hill, have sold their farm of 250 acres for $25,625 to a fruit company, which will plant the entire farm in apple trees.

Charles A. Grace, a well-known young farmer of Shepherdstown, went to Martinsburg a few days ago to see a street carnival and fell in love with pretty Miss Emily Freeman, an Oklahoma cowgirl, to whom he was married, after a courtship of less than two hours. They left at once for the groom's home in Jefferson county.

Phillip M. Cline, a native of Mount Sidney, Augusta county, who had spent the past eighteen years in Winchester, died here a few days ago, after a brief illness of congestion of the lungs, aged fifty-six years. He was a member of the Red Men, and leaves his widow and several sons and daughters. His funeral took place this afternoon.

A monument to the memory of John B. Graber, a prominent member of the Woodmen of the World, was unveiled in Mount Hebron Cemetery this afternoon under the auspices of Hickory Camp, No. 34, of Winchester, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and members of the order. T. J. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, was master of ceremonies, and the principal address was made by State Manager S. B. Latham, of Norfolk.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Levi, of Berryville, Clarke county, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Annie Humphrey Levi, to Robert Armistead Colston, which is to be solemnized on Thursday evening, November 17.

Corn Prizes Awarded.
Chatham, November 6.—The Boys' Corn Club of Pittsylvania county assembled in the courthouse Thursday afternoon for the test of the corn prizes offered. Each member contesting brought ten ears of corn. The first prize was for the greatest yield, for the one acre grown, which was won by T. C. Creasy, Jr., of Mount Airy, who reported 127 1/2 bushels. This prize was five bags of meal, fourth, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; third, Dennis Powell, Chatham, 70 bushels, three sacks of meal; second, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; fourth, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; fifth, R. B. Ramsey, Elba, 77 bushels, buggy robe; sixth, J. T. Hutcherson, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; seventh, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; eighth, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; ninth, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes; tenth, C. B. Ramsey, Elba, 776 bushels to a bushel, 125 1/2 bushels, suit of clothes.

Letter From Crane, Missouri, Full of Good Advice for American Girls.

Crane, Mo.—"There is not much pleasure in life if one has to be sick all the time," writes Mrs. J. D. Cook, of this place. "So many women suffer from girlhood on, all through life, who could be spared such suffering, and live in comfort, if they would only try Cardui, the woman's tonic, as I did."

"I was 16 years old when I first took Cardui. Now I am 39. Whenever I was poorly or felt real bad, Cardui always brought me out all right. I have faith in it. I know what it has done for me, and I have seen what it has done for others."

No one can know so well as you whether you need a tonic or not.

If you feel weak, languid, lazy and generally "out of sorts" you know you need a tonic—we know you need Cardui, the woman's tonic.

Cardui's strengthening effects quickly show themselves in many ways. It is mild, non-intoxicating, non-mineral, harmless.

It will pay you to test it for yourself, to-day.

Call for it at any one out of 40,000 pharmacies.

Vote May Decide Future of Taft

Roosevelt Victory in New York Might Mean His Retirement.

Vote May Decide Future of Taft

Roosevelt Victory in New York Might Mean His Retirement.

THEN TO DON ERMINE

With Colonel in White House He Would Put Taft on Supreme Bench.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, D. C., November 6.—If Stimson defeats Dix for the governorship of New York at to-morrow's election, it probably means the last of William Howard Taft's administration and the undoubted return of Theodore Roosevelt to the White House in 1912, unless the Democrats are victorious at that time. Conversely, if Dix defeats Stimson, thereby defeating the purpose of Mr. Roosevelt, the latter will be in the down and out class, and the country will hear little more of him hereafter. That all there is in the present situation, so far as New York State is concerned, but the results are far-reaching in their consequence. On this issue hangs the fate of the next Republican candidate for the presidency, the probable platform to be adopted, and likewise, in a measure, that of the Democratic party also.

Stimson spells Roosevelt, and Roosevelt spells Pinchot and Pinchot's conservation policies, there not being the shadow of a doubt but that if the former President shall again go into the White House he will make Pinchot Secretary of the Interior, in order that his ideas on the way the government forests shall be conducted may be carried out. Stimson's election also means that President Taft will go on the Supreme Court bench almost immediately after leaving the White House. Within the next two or three years several vacancies are expected, and there seems little reason to believe that President Taft will fall to the judicial ermine. This is especially patently because of the fact that if Roosevelt succeeds Taft it will be entirely due to the former that Mr. Taft shall not be again nominated, and in that event, to placate matters, a seat on the bench of the highest court in the land would be offered.

As a Supreme Court justice, President Taft will find the work to his entire taste, while there have been many instances that life at the White House has not been a bed of roses to the President, because of his inability to swing the big stick at the right times and a disposition to let matters adjust themselves. In addition, Mr. Taft was called early in his administration by Senator Aldrich and other Republican advisers.

The House Situation.
While no one, not even excepting the optimistic McKinley, manager of the Republican campaign, is able to say that to-morrow's developments will bring forth so far as actual numbers of Democrats and Republicans to sit in the Sixty-first Congress is concerned, there are certain indications that point out results that are not far from the words of any one man or a dozen men. One of these signs is found in the fact that, fearing Ohio would be lost to them, and knowing that if this should be the case now they would also probably lose it in the national election two years hence, every available Republican, big and little, has been dispatched to the Buckeye State during the past week to head off the Democratic stampede.

Another strange instance of how the political game is being played comes in here. Realizing that New York is probably lost to them, so far as the personnel of the next Congress is concerned, party managers in the Republican line-up saw some time back that to make an open fight there, in view of the fact that Roosevelt is fighting for Stimson against Taft, and in a way against the regular forces, might do serious harm; so they fired their main shot in Ohio and left New York practically to take care of itself.

Who Will Be the Republican Leaders?
While everybody is going on the assumption that the House is going to be Republican, what are the Republicans going to do if they are in the minority, and who will be their leaders?

It is evident that the campaign has done nothing to lessen the breach between the Regulars of the Republican party and the insurgents. There seems little likelihood that the two factions of the party will come together amicably and settle the question of leadership of a minority. And just how strong the insurgent forces will be is a matter of conjecture. It is quite probable, however, that a number of members who have been classified as Regular and among the supporters of Speaker Cannon will yield to the sentiment in their home districts and appear in the next Congress as dyed in the wool insurgents. In such a case the situation would be simplified to considerable degree. Some militant insurgent like Norris or Murdock would probably be the choice of the majority for Speaker, and would consequently assume the responsibility of directing the program of the minority in all matters of legislation. But what will happen if the Regulars control the caucus? Would that mean the selection of "Uncle Joe Cannon," or would they compromise on some well-known standstill like Walter Smith, of Iowa, in order to make the path easier for some of the members of Regular tendencies who come to the caucus with anti-Cannon sentiment? If the caucus of Regulars selects "Uncle Joe" as Republican floor leader in the place of Congressman Payne, which is likely to happen if the Democrats are successful to-morrow, Champ Clark will have his hands full when he takes the Speaker's chair.

Though no man can tell whether to-morrow's sun will set on a Democratic or Republican victory, one thing is certain—the next two years will be the liveliest, according to present signs, that the country has seen in many a day. The light is on for the national election two years hence, and if the Democrats win to-morrow they will take a long step in ridding the country of the greed and corruption that have held the people within their grasp since Cleveland left the White House and the Democrats lost their grip in Congress.

Will Inaugurate New President

Durham, N. C., November 6.—After several weeks of hard work, the Trinity College committee on arrangements has finally completed its task, and everything is now in readiness for the inauguration of the new president-elect, William Preston Few, Ph. D., on inauguration day, November 9, at 10 o'clock in the South has ever given such a hearty reception to any visiting delegation as will Trinity College give on Wednesday, November 9, to the official representatives of practically all the large colleges and universities in the United States.

Not only is the college widely awake to the big event, but the city of Durham is to open up its homes to the delegates and join in with the college officials in helping to make all alumni and visiting delegates enjoy their stay. The Mayor has issued a proclamation in which he says in part: "The city of Durham will have as guests probably the most distinguished body of educational leaders ever assembled in a Southern city. Practically all of the large institutions of the country will send representatives, many of whom will be of the first rank. Durham is to be signally honored, and I call upon all the citizens to do all in their power to give our visitors every welcome and to show the spirit of cordiality and hospitality."

On this occasion there will be notable addresses by President Judson, of the University of Chicago; Governor Kitchin, President Few, and the retiring president, Bishop John C. Kilgo. Beginning upon a new era, the eyes of the public are centred upon Trinity College. Already under the new administration vast schemes have been outlined, and it is safe to predict that the college will make a great stride in the past but evinces a higher and greater growth in the future.
